

PRIVACY POLICY

Effective Date: 10/15/2015; Revision Date: 12/31/2015

This Policy explains the ways in which the website www.aldridgepите.com may collect and use personal information, while respecting the privacy of users' personal information.

Information collected: Certain information may be collected on this website. This information may also be submitted to or accessible by a third party. The collection of personal information and/or blind data on the website is described below:

- "CAREERS": The "CAREERS" page, accessible from the www.aldridgepите.com homepage menu along the top of the homepage, contains information on employment opportunities with Aldridge Pite, LLP. If a website user wishes to submit his/her resume or other information in response to a job posting, he/she will be prompted to set up a user account. This account and the personal information submitted through this account are collected by a third-party vendor. The vendor then shares this information with Aldridge Pite, LLP. The vendor's Privacy Policy can be found at the following link: <https://power.atsondemand.com/privacy/>. While some applicants may submit resumes via email to resumes@aldridgepите.com, ATS OnDemand is the primary means by which job applicants are received and reviewed. Therefore, Aldridge Pite, LLP reserves the right to direct applicants to the "CAREERS" page on the website and to use of the third-party vendor ATS OnDemand to submit information, and Aldridge Pite, LLP makes no guarantees about the receipt or consideration of applicant information received outside of this third-party vendor portal.
- "SALE DAY FORECLOSURE LISTINGS": The "SALE DAY FORECLOSURES LISTINGS" link, accessible from the left side of the www.aldridgepите.com homepage, leads to a searchable foreclosure listing database for Georgia. This database is not accessible to the website user unless the Terms and Conditions are accepted. To use the database, a user may run searches to locate a listing for a specific property. Blind data may be collected on users who visit this database, which allows Aldridge Pite, LLP website administrators to see the total number of people who have accessed the database, though these administrators do not have access to user names or other personal information. This information/data may not be collected if a website user does not access the "SALE DAY FORECLOSURE LISTING" database. However, this portion of the website is not accessible without the collection of blind data on the website user.
- "NDMS": The "NDMS" link, accessible from the left side of the www.aldridgepите.com homepage, can be used to access the NDMS database with a username and password provided by Aldridge Pite, LLP. In the event that Aldridge Pite, LLP has provided a username and password to access NDMS, the website will track the usernames and passwords that have been used to access NDMS.

- “CLOSINGS”: In the event a user selects “Closings” from the www.aldridgepите.com homepage menu along the top of the homepage, and chooses “Georgia” from the dropdown options, the user will be directed to the re.aldridgepите.com website. The “Contact Us” menu option on the re.aldridgepите.com website will present a user with the option to enter an email address, first name, last name, and role in order to subscribe to a newsletter. The email address, first name, and last name are required to subscribe to the newsletter. If a user enters the required information, a third-party vendor is used to facilitate newsletter distribution, and will have access to the email address, first name, last name, and role entered for the purpose of subscribing to the newsletter. The vendor’s Privacy Policy can be found at the following link: <http://mailchimp.com/legal/privacy/>.

Blind data may be collected on users who visit the www.aldridgepите.com website and any of its pages, which allows Aldridge Pite, LLP website administrators to see information about website usage, such as total number of visits to the website and the average amount of time spent on the website, though these administrators do not have access to user names or other personal information, with the exception of the information that is described above.

In the event that a visitor to this website enters his/her personal information into text boxes that are available, that information is collected. Aside from information that a user may enter in the website, the website does not collect personal information. A user’s search engine or Internet provider may, however, collect certain types of information about a user and the user’s Internet history.

Online Tracking: Aldridge Pite, LLP does not treat consumers whose browsers send a “do not track” signal differently from consumers whose browsers do not send a “do not track” signal. Notwithstanding the information above, Aldridge Pite, LLP does not collect or track consumer personal information about a consumer’s browsing activities over time and across third-party websites.

Privacy Policy Changes: Changes to this Privacy Policy may be made from time to time. A change will be reflected by an update in the Effective Date line, which will list a revision date.
